Contract signed, details remain on Gulf Coast World's Fair train

By NAN PATTON EHRRBRIGHT
The first contract for Gulf Coast train service between Mobile and New Orleans was signed Thursday in Washington, D.C.

Delmer Wilcox of Waveland, a member of the Louisiana-Mississippi-Alabama Rapid Rail Transit Commission which initiated proposals for the service, was present when the contract was signed Thursday afternoon in the office of Amtrak's president.

Plans call for a daily passenger train service to begin April 29 and extend through Sept. 30.

The five-month experimental service coincides with the 1984 World Fair which opens in New Orleans May 12. Train operation after Sept. 30 will depend on whether the three states can continue to fund the service.

According to a news release from Amtrak officials, the train will make intermediate stops in Pascagoula, Biloxi, Gulfport and Bay St. Louis.

But Wilcox said Friday that several details have yet to be worked out, including ticket price and specific intermediate stops.

"The train will definitely stop either in Bay St. Louis or Waveland," he said, "and service could include Long Beach and Pass Christian."

"Whether the train will stop in Waveland or Bay St. Louis will depend on costs to the commission."

Wilcox said these final details will be worked out by the end of December or the first of January.

He noted that Amtrak must conform to the guidelines of federal legislation under which Amtrak operates.

"It cannot provide commuter service," he said.

In addition, Wilcox said, commission members are now negotiating a contract for a second train.

If a second train is added, he said, he hopes that service would be provided both in Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

According to Amtrak officials, the train will include a diesel locomotive, two 84-seat coaches and a combined coach and food service car.

The train, to be known as the Gulf Coast Ltd., will leave Mobile at 7 a.m. each morning and make the return journey from New Orleans at 6 p.m.

Amtrak officials estimate the running time at three hours, 40 minutes, but Wilcox said he thinks three hours, 25 minutes is more accurate and that the running time could be cut back to three hours.

Funding for the train will be shared by the three states and Amtrak.

Under the plan, Amtrak will pay 55 percent of the operating costs and 50 percent of the capital cost.

Wilcox said the states will contribute $150,000 each for operating costs.

The states have already paid about $50,000 each in engineer's fees, consulting costs and other commission costs, he said.

The train will operate on Seaboard System Railroad tracks.

Amtrak officials report that plans are also underway to provide shuttle bus service between the New Orleans station and the fairgrounds, some five blocks away.

Lack of ice house still plaguing Cadet fishermen

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Bayou Cadet Marina fishermen are still experiencing problems trying to get an ice manufacturing plant at the county facility.

Two members of the Gulf Fishermen's Association appeared at a Thursday night joint meeting of Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission and County Board of Supervisors at the commission offices in Waveland.

Kenny May and Terrell Ladner of the association complained a firm subleasing from the group, which leases a portion of the marina for its members, has failed to provide an ice facility for fishermen as required by a contractual agreement.

At least two previous prospective ice manufacturers have backed out of agreements to locate an ice plant at Bayou Cadet.

May and Ladner said Bayou Cadet Shell and Fish was supposed to install an ice plant within a six-month period which has elapsed.

In addition, they charged the firm is selling oysters without the required State Health Department shell stock permit.

Joe Everett and Jimmy Ingersol, both officers of the company in question, were both unavailable for comment Friday.

Anthony Taconi, a shellfish sanitation specialist of the department's Gulfport office, said Friday that Bayou Cadet Shell and Fish has been repeatedly warned to obtain a permit, but the company must first install a permanent building with operational restrooms containing hot and cold water plumbing to meet National Shellfish Sanitation Standards.

Taconi said in a telephone conversation with Ingersol earlier that day, he promised to cease oyster sales.

The sanitation specialist noted the Mississippi oyster season is closed, but that Louisiana waters are now open to all fishermen for the harvesting of these shellfish.

At the commission meeting, James DeBlanc, commission executive director, reported the sublease with Bayou Cadet Shell and Fish could be terminated at any time due to failure to meet the terms of the contract.

May, owner of Bayou Cadet Fisheries, said the county upgraded its sewage treatment plant at the marina and he installed plumbing in his building to obtain a permit.

Ladner said he eventually lost his permit due to a lack of proper facilities.

The two association members said the entire marina could be shut down and the organization, county and state could be subjected to a lawsuit if con-

School cleanup work scheduled for holidays

By NAN PATTON EHRRBRIGHT

Maintenance, transportation and cafeteria personnel in Hancock County School District are going to be working on "catchup" tasks during the Christmas holidays to preserve the schools' accreditation status.

As a result of action taken by the school trustees at a recess meeting Saturday, the employees will not, this year, be taking a two-week vacation along with students and classroom teachers.

Last Monday Superintendent Terrell Randolph gave the trustees lists from principals of work that needed to be done in their schools.

Randolph told the board it was essential that some personnel work during the Christmas break.

Some work, he said, cannot be done when students are in school regularly.

That work includes bus maintenance and repair, floor maintenance, window cleaning and repair, painting, sandblasting, installation of gutters, changing filters on equipment, etc.

Randolph also told the board that his office would be open during the holidays.

The board refused Monday to take any action on the matter, pending a review of prior policy and a personal tour of the schools.

On Friday, board members visited the Hancock North Central complex.

Saturday they visited Gulfview and Charles B. Murphy Elementary Schools after discussing the problem.

"There are only two opportunities during the school year for maintenance people to strip, wax and mop floors," Randolph said—during the Christmas holidays and during the five-day spring break.

Randolph also noted that the Hancock County Board of Health has issued an unapproved building inspection report for the schools to the State Department of Health.

That report will be turned over to the appropriate accreditation commissions, and the schools lose their accredited status unless a re-inspection results in an approved inspection report by Dec. 31.

Randolph said that most of the problems cited can be resolved during the holiday period if there are people on

Hancock eligible for $500,140 in airport grant

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Hancock County will be recipient of a $500,140 federal grant for Stennis International Airport Airport development provided local government matches that amount equally.

Carol Taft, a public relations official of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development office in Jackson, reported Thursday that the one-time HUD Community Development Block Grant is part of $8.7 million awarded for Mississippi projects in a nationwide Emergency Jobs Bill signed by President Ronald Reagan on March 24.

"The project should create 145 immediate jobs and 125 permanent construction jobs," Taft stated.

"The grant program provides money to areas of high unemployment so people can be employed," she said.

James DeBlanc, Hancock Port and Harbor Commission executive director, reported at a commission meeting

Thursday night that the funds would be utilized to install sewerage, a water tower and improve drainage at the airport industrial park facility.

He noted the financially strapped county must now find funding sources to match the HUD grant which would result in airport project exceeding $1 million.

The commission authorized a $1,000 payment to South Mississippi Planning and Development District based in Gulfport for its work in obtaining the grant.

Regarding the grants, Gov. William Winter in Jackson said Thursday, "These funds will enable us to put a significant number of unemployed citizens back to work and at the same time complete activities and projects which will provide lasting benefits to communities and counties throughout Mississippi."

"It is a very meaningful program," he added.

BISHOP-ELECT TERRY STEIB is still "in limbo" and awaiting the announcement earlier this week that he has been elevated to the episcopate.

Bishop-Elect Terry Steib sixth black bishop from St. Augustine's

By NAN P. EHRRBRIGHT

"There's still a feeling of awe and wonderment," Rev. Terry Steib of St. Augustine's Divine Word Seminary in Bay St. Louis said on the Friday following the Dec. 6 announcement of his elevation to the episcopate and appointment as auxiliary to Archbishop John May of St. Louis, Mo.

Steib, who came to St. Augustine's from Vacherie, La. when he was 13 to attend school, has spent the major portion of his life here.

From 1957-61 he studied in Conesus, N.Y. and from 1961-63 he studied at Techy, Ill.

Then he came back to St. Augustine's.

"It took about a year for me to become accustomed to the difference in climate," he said.

"It was snowing in St. Louis Tuesday when the announcement was made at a press conference."

"But I asked if it got hot there, and was told it did, and someone said St. Louis is pretty much a Southern city and like New Orleans in many ways, so I'm sure I'm going to enjoy it."

Steib said he knew about the appointment about a week prior to the announcement, but was bound to secrecy. He was in Louisiana when he received an emergency call from Archbishop May offering him the new position. "It didn't hit me until that night," BISHOP-ELECT—Page 6A taminated oysters are sold at Bayou Cadet.

May reported the Bayou Cadet Shell and Fish promised to provide fuel, a snack bar and ice, but wanted to also buy seafood from fishermen.

He said the association agreed to allow him to purchase seafood to get the ice house.

The company has also not built a permanent building or a bulkhead as called for in the contract, May added.

May also complained the company is selling fuel from a portable tank after he was required by the state to form a dike around his fuel tank.

Ladner said if Bayou Cadet Shell and Fish operates in violation of regulations then he should also be allowed to operate illegally.

Deblanc suggested the two meet with the commission's Bayou Cadet Marina Committee.

Bay businessman undecided on suit settlement offer

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A Bay St. Louis businessman who filed a $200,000 lawsuit against the city has not yet decided if he will accept a $4,750 settlement.

Lamar Ladner, owner and operator of the Pinball Palace on South Beach Boulevard, said Friday that he would agree to the amount depending on the written terms of the settlement.

Ladner filed an approximate $200,000 lawsuit against city officials about two years ago in which he alleged City Police Department officers harassed him, his wife (Collette) and their customers.

The Bay St. Louis City Council Thursday night agreed with a recommendation by Joseph Gex, city attorney, to settle the matter out of court and pay Gex's fees which he said amounted to about $2,500.

James Thrifley, a councilman, cast the only opposing vote and Gene Taylor, a councilman and state senator-elect, did not attend the special meeting at City Hall.

Gex said the settlement amount was recently recommended by Walter L. Nixon Jr., chief judge of the U.S. Southern District Court of Mississippi, and John M. Roper, a U.S. magistrate, both in Biloxi.

However, the city attorney reported Nixon said Ladner's request for an injunction forbidding further harassment by the city is not acceptable because it could keep police from properly enforcing the law.

Ladner said he requested the injunction and awaits to see the settlement terms because he would not want to again experience problems and be forced to file a suit.

When Thrifley questioned the basis for the suit, Gex explained at the meeting that Ladner charged a police officer with brandishing a gun in his establishment and unjustly arrested the couple for loitering in front of their place of business.

The attorney said Nixon noted that when the alleged incidents occurred the city was not requiring officers to attend the State Police Training Academy, but now the Bay department requires all officers to attend the school.

"It was the city's policy of passiveness... The city would be liable if its present policy didn't require officers to be trained," Gex stated.

THE IMPACT A NEW HOSPITAL WILL HAVE ON HANCOCK COUNTY...

The construction of a new hospital for Hancock County has been much in the news lately. In order to clarify many points and questions being asked by the public, the Hancock

General Hospital Board of Trustees would like to take this means to answer some of these questions.

Did You Know

1. Hancock General Hospital currently has a $5.4 million operating budget in Hancock County, and projects operating budgets of $6.5 million and $7.6 million in 1985 and 1986, respectively.
2. Hancock General currently employs 195 people, making it one of the largest employers in the county. A new facility will mean more jobs for people in Hancock County, thereby also producing more revenue for the area.
3. Hancock General pays $2.6 million in employee salaries and benefits, and projects an increase to $2.8 million and $3 million in 1985 and 1986, respectively.
4. Approximately 70% of Hancock General's employees live within Hancock County, and spend the majority of their salaries within the county. A new facility, which would create more jobs and increase salaries, would mean more revenue for the county in sales taxes, etc.

5. Hancock General has committed itself to providing its patients with the highest level of care, but also to educating the public in the prevention of illness. A new facility would afford a greater opportunity for us to expand our educational programs for the public.

6. A new facility would definitely improve the aesthetic value of Hancock County, with a modern-looking building and modern interior. It would also provide the patients with more comfortable, modern surroundings, thereby assisting them in recovering more readily.

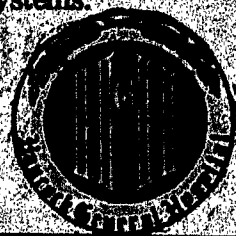

Again, our conclusion that a new facility is necessary is based on the following major reasons:

- A. The cost of upgrading the present facility.
- B. The difficulty of adding to the existing structure.
- C. The age of the original building and systems.

D. The potential benefits of relocating the hospital on a site which would be more accessible to the members of the community which it serves.

E. The lack of disruption of health care services during construction and renovation.

F. The impact—economically, educationally and aesthetically—on Hancock County.

Wastewater plan rehashed, by board no action taken

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

The Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District may or may not change its proposed discharge point for Waveland and Bay St. Louis sewage treatment plant outfall lines.

As part of its plan to upgrade wastewater management facilities in the two communities, the district has proposed extending the two outfalls, the Bay line from Edwards Bayou and the Waveland line from Watts Bayou, to the Jourdan River near the Bay of St. Louis.

But about 100 home owners from that area attended a public hearing on the plan Nov. 28 to voice their opposition to the proposed discharge point for Waveland.

Tuesday John McCarty from the state Bureau of Pollution Control advised district members to "sit down and look at additional planning and alternative discharge points," and then to hold another public hearing.

He also urged the district to "try as much as possible to involve local people who are going to be impacted."

McCarty said BPC officials felt that a number of legitimate comments were presented at the hearing, the most pertinent being the proposed Waveland discharge location and the public desire to see the Jourdan River protected as much as possible.

"I'm not saying it's not going to be the Jourdan River," McCarty cautioned. "I don't know what will happen. I'm just saying we should sit down and look at alternatives."

After the district makes its recommendations regarding the plan, including discharge point, the plan must be approved by state officials.

McCarty also told district members they should develop a response summary document, including adverse comments from the public hearing.

"You need to present a justifiable argument as to why we chose the discharge location."

"What we want to do is find the most acceptable location that adversely affects the least number of people."

Ray Eaton of the engineering firm Lewis-Eaton Partnership of Jackson, who prepared the plan, said that other alternatives and other wastewater methods had already been studied.

"We evaluated land spreading, spray irrigation, deep well injection and other discharge locations," he said.

Wastewater Management Chairman John Longo, mayor of Waveland, noted that "We're making a 180 degree turn based on the public hearing."

"We've been through this before. Need I remind you that the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland are now operating on a temporary permit based on the state's authority that we put discharge in the Jourdan River?"

"I don't care where you put a discharge point, there's going to be someone who doesn't like it," Eaton pointed out.

McCarty indicated that the state might reconsider its precedent of not discharging into the Mississippi Sound based on selfish harvesting and tourism.

"The state needs to look at this again. We have no model that will simulate the dynamics out in the Sound, but we do have models that simulate freshwater streams and streams like the Jourdan."

"Because of that, the state has always felt that discharges would adversely affect the sound."

But, he noted, an environmental impact study would have to precede any decision to discharge into the sound.

"Who would fund that study?" Longo asked.

"You certainly wouldn't expect Bay St. Louis or Waveland to fund it!"

Six Hancock County residents from Jourdan River area repeated the concerns expressed at the public hearing and suggested that they could be helpful in developing an alternative plan.

Michael Reynolds, who said he lives 200 yards from the proposed Waveland discharge point, noted that "We have a microbiologist, a pollution control expert, a sewer construction engineer, a certified public accountant, a medical doctor and a chemist."

Another Jourdan River homeowner, Attorney Tom Thornhill, agreed.

"We've got lots of folks who could help, who would donate their time and expertise."

After a three-hour meeting, the participants agreed that it would be "nice" if the cities could keep their current discharge points and upgrade quality.

But Longo noted that federal funds will not be available for facility improvements.

And Bay St. Louis would have to meet more stringent standards if they upgrade instead of moving to a secondary stream, McCarty said.

No official action was taken at Wednesday's meeting, and Longo said Friday morning that no commitments were made.

"The only affirmative action taken was that we all agree we're working in the right direction."

The other members of the wastewater board are Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett and Hancock County Board of Supervisors President A.A. (Dolph) Keller.

Officials proclaim Drunk Driving Awareness Week

Governor William Winter has issued a proclamation declaring "drunk and drugged driving" as the most serious problem encountered on Mississippi streets and highways.

In the proclamation, which designates this week as "Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week" Winter points out the "need to focus our attention during the Christmas holiday season on responsible and safe driving."

Sidney B. Berry, commissioner of Public Safety, said motorists can help protect themselves from drunk and drugged drivers by remembering that:

- 1) Most automobile accidents occur in Mississippi between 5 and 5 p.m. on Friday.
- 2) More fatal automobile accidents occur in Mississippi between 11 p.m. and midnight on Saturday than during any other hour of the week.
- 3) It is better to swerve right rather than toward oncoming traffic to prevent a crash.
- 4) Hitting a row of bushes would be better than a tree, post, or solid object.
- 5) Hitting a vehicle moving in the same direction would be better than hitting a vehicle head-on.
- 6) It is better to drive off the road rather than skid off when avoiding a crash.
- 7) It is better to hit a stationary object than to hit an oncoming vehicle.
- 8) Alcohol is a factor in more than half of all fatal motor vehicle accidents nationwide.
- 9) Buckled safety belts on drivers and passengers will decrease injury-producing and fatal automobile accidents.
- 10) Mixing alcohol and drugs is particularly dangerous—taking one antihistamine with one drink doubles the impairment effect of both.
- 11) Party hosts have a responsibility to their guests to provide plenty of food, to stop serving drinks early, and offer to drive tipsy individuals home or invite them to spend the night.

The week is also proclaimed on a national basis by President Ronald Reagan.

Conviction on DUI charges brings enormous insurance rate increases

Liability insurance rates currently being paid by automobile owners could increase as much as six times if the owner is convicted of a driving under the influence (DUI) charge.

Collision insurance rates could increase fourfold for a DUI conviction. These rate increases depend on whether the insurer continues to provide coverage at all to a client who is convicted of a DUI charge.

It was learned through a telephone survey of insurance companies, conducted by the Mississippi Highway Patrol, that liability costs may increase as much as 150 percent or, on the point system, by six points for a client convicted of DUI.

Collision rates increase by four points or 100 percent for those convicted of DUI.

December 11-17 has been designated as "Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week" in Mississippi by Governor William Winter.

The purpose of the week is to encourage safe and responsible driving during the holiday season, and to focus attention on immediate and long-range problems a person faces if he or she chooses to use drugs or alcohol and drive.

Most insurance company spokesmen said it would be uncommon for their companies to sell insurance to anyone convicted of DUI, even a first-time offender. Not one company spokesman said his company would insure a known DUI offender unless it was through an assigned risk plan at substantially higher rates.

The Highway Patrol wants motorists to be aware of some risks they take when they drive after using drugs or drinking alcohol.

1) Even if a drunk driver gets by without causing an accident that results in the death or injury of another person, since more than 50 percent of all automobile crashes are alcohol related, he or she will, in all likelihood, be stopped by a law enforcement officer.

2) A DUI charge is made against drivers who register .10 or above blood alcohol content when tested on a breath testing instrument.

To make it convenient to perform on-the-spot breath tests, all enforcement vehicles of the Mississippi Highway Patrol are equipped with hand-held breath testing instruments.

After registering .10 or above on a hand-held unit, drivers are transported to another facility where they are tested again on a certified instrument.

Persons who do not register .10 or above during the on-the-spot testing are not transported for another test unless their driving impairment is so severe that he or she is a threat or danger to other motorists.

3) Most first time DUI offenders spend time in jail unless a friend or family member posts bond and drives them home. Usually, the offender is kept overnight in a holding facility because his condition is considered a threat to others.

By December of 1984 many of Mississippi's 1.7 million licensed drivers will have experienced insurance rate increases because of DUI convictions.

Many will be unable to obtain automobile insurance at all. Some alcohol and drug abusers who drive will be responsible for the death or crippling injury of another person.

There will be a few who will have spent their first night in jail.

Some professional drivers whose jobs require them to drive would have been terminated because of a DUI conviction and mandatory driver license suspension.

Another group's drinking would have affected their family life to the extent that their family life no longer exists.

However, there will be some drug and alcohol abusers who will call a cab or a friend or ride a bus because they understand the risks they take by driving themselves.

Christmas Seal history recounted

Each year, a new Christmas Seal is designed for use in the Christmas Seal crusade conducted by the Mississippi Lung Association to prevent and control lung diseases in Mississippi.

The first Christmas Seal was the idea of a postal clerk in Denmark in 1904. Before he died in 1927, he had been decorated by kings of three countries for his simple idea that made possible buildings and operations of sanatoriums for treatment of tuberculosis.

The first U.S.A. Christmas Seal was designed by Emily Bissell in 1907 and used to raise funds to keep a small Delaware TB hospital from closing. The Seal crusade has indeed encircled the world in its fight for lung health.

The 1983 Christmas Seals and their matching gift tags feature a classic Santa: rosy-faced, bearded, jolly and wise. The richly colored Seal, designed by artist Bob Larkin, is reminiscent of the Santa enjoyed by generations of Americans. The new gift-tags included on each sheet of Christmas Seals are handy for gift-wrapping and are very popular.

Perhaps the best remembered Christmas Seal design is the children's art theme. Each sheet on the sheet of 54 represented a winning art design from children in each state and territory of the U.S.A.

Mississippi winners for the five-year children's art design were: 1975, Karen Comer, Fulton; 1977, Carlton McCurry, Greenville; 1978, Ted Pruitt Allen, III, Magee; 1979, Stacy Lantip, Batesville; and 1980, Eddie Williams of Brandon.

Another all-time favorite design is the 1976 bicentennial theme which featured a full page Christmas scene mural.

Each Christmas Seal carries the red double-barred cross, symbol of health and help. The first Christmas Seals were used solely to combat tuberculosis. Today's Christmas Seals fight for clean air and against a wide variety of lung diseases such as emphysema, asthma, chronic bronchitis, lung cancer, occupational lung diseases and lung diseases of the newborn.

The Mississippi Lung Association, the Christmas Seal People, urge all Mississippians to "Take Care of Your Lungs" and fight lung disease by answering your Christmas Seal letter today. Anyone needing additional Christmas Seals of information about Christmas Seal Services may contact the Mississippi Lung Association, P. O. Box 9865, Jackson, MS 39208.

The People's Business

THE PROBLEM WITH ESTATE TAXES

Until 1981 Mississippi's estate tax laws were sound, practical, and easily administered. Our estate tax law just followed federal rules and regulations, but all that has changed.

The federal government changed its estate tax law in 1982, but Mississippi law remained the same. The federal law governing deductions changed again in 1983 and will change again yearly from 1984 through 1987. Result of those changes is this: In 1987 federal law will allow a $600,000 deduction before estate taxes are required. Unless Mississippi changes its law, the state's deduction will remain at $175,625.

Senator Thad Cochran SPECIAL REPORT:

I'm especially pleased to be able to report to you of progress we are making in the fight to stop the flow of illegal drugs into our state.

Unfortunately, Mississippi has become a prime entry point for drug smugglers. The fact that illegal drug seizures in our state topped $100 million in street value last year indicates that we have a growing problem.

To fully assess the seriousness of the problem and identify ways we could fight back, I conducted a Senate committee hearing in Biloxi this summer and participated in another one in Mobile last month.

Testimony at those hearings indicated that drug smuggling has been moving up the Gulf Coast from Florida, following the success of a newly organized drug enforcement task force.

An important factor in the success in fighting drugs in Florida was increased assistance from the military. I'm convinced the best way to stop illegal drugs from entering our country is through an all out commitment by law enforcement agencies, with assistance from the military.

Military planes equipped with the most sophisticated radar can be used to spot drug smugglers attempting to enter the U.S. through coastal states such as our own. Increased assistance from Naval and Coast Guard vessels also will serve as deterrents.

I'm pleased to report to you of new assurance that more military aircraft are going to be looking for drug smugglers.

Shortly before Congress recessed last month, legislation I sponsored was adopted that will make significant increases in military assistance in stopping the flow of illegal drugs into the United States.

This legislation allocates an additional $10 million to Navy drug surveillance efforts. It directs the Navy and Coast Guard to test the effectiveness of hydrofoil patrol ships in drug interdiction, and it calls for more Air Force radar surveillance aircraft to be assigned to the U.S. Customs Service.

Adoption of this legislation reaffirms a commitment by the Congress to fight illegal drug trafficking and I think it's a very positive step toward our goal of controlling drugs.

Mississippi is dotted with small unattended airstrips where planes can land and dispose of drugs and narcotics. An increase in the number of Air Force and Navy planes especially equipped for drug smuggling surveillance will make it much more difficult for smugglers to land unobserved on these fields.

The nuclear-powered guided missile cruiser, the USS Mississippi, has already demonstrated how Naval vessels can be used in drug interdiction. Last year the crew of the Mississippi, working with the Coast Guard, participated in the seizure of a ship carrying more than 30 tons of marijuana.

We are hearing more and more success stories from regional Drug Enforcement Task Forces recently established by the President.

It's going to take working together, federal, state, and local officials cooperating to win the war against drugs. I'm committed to this fight and I'm convinced we will win it.

Attack on drunk driver problem being mounted on several fronts

"I'll never get picked up" is a common notion individuals have when they get behind the wheel of their car after having drunk to excess.

In general terms, unfortunately, this has been true across the country. It's estimated that there is only one arrest for every 500 to 2,000 drunk drivers on the road.

Giving further encouragement to those who drive after drinking excessively, is the feeling that "if I do get caught, there will be no serious penalty."

Drinking alcoholic beverages in an accepted American practice and some 80 percent admit to driving after drinking. Fortunately, only 7 percent are considered to be "heavy" drinkers or the fatality rate would be much higher in the United States.

A startling figure came from one state where a legislative committee was told by a representative of the state office of highway safety that 17 percent of the state's residents were "heavy" drinkers, which means they averaged a quart of alcoholic beverages each day.

Many repeat offenders are a menace on our highways because some states have laws that are too lenient and, in some instances, judicial sentencing is inconsistent and varies with the temperament of the judge.

Lawyers defending a client involved in a drunk driving case frequently make careful selection of the judge before whom they must present their case, knowing the kinds of penalties each metes out.

In Atlanta, GA, this has been remedied, at least to a certain extent, by the inauguration of a "wheel system" which provides for rotating DWI cases among three judges so defense attorneys can no longer select the most lenient of the three.

Increased efforts to keep the drunk driver off the road in recent years have had a degree of success, and the resulting statistics help to create a wholesome public awareness of the problem.

In January 1982, when an Air Florida plane crashed in Washington, DC, it took the lives of some 70 people.

The entire country agonized over this tragic loss and investigations were begun at once to determine what happened, so similar accidents could be avoided in the future.

In a similar vein, but virtually unnoticed, about the same number of people, 70, are killed each day on our highways in alcohol-related collisions.

Public attention and outrage is confined only to the relatives of the 25,000 annual victims.

Thanks to increasingly widespread resentment toward the drunk driver, volunteer groups have sprung up from New York to California and Maine to Mexico to reduce the human and economic carnage on our highways caused by drunk drivers.

These groups have influenced legislatures, and in recent years, state lawmakers have responded with more stringent legislation affecting those who drink and drive.

To cite a few examples: Arizona approved a law that eliminates plea bargaining, requires a 24-hour jail sentence and a fine of up to $250 with possible suspension of driver's license for 90 days (the number of arrests for drunk driving has been cut in half); in Florida, new legislation provides that the first time offender shall provide 50 hours of community service, a minimum fine of $250 and up to 6 months' license suspension; Kansas now provides for 48 hours in jail or 100 hours of community service, with 5 days in jail for a second offense.

A unique aspect of the Kansas situation is that the jail administrator may assign the specific days a violator must serve to avoid the overcrowding that makes jail confinement a difficult penalty for judges in some states to assess.

Another area in which state legislatures are involved is the legal drinking age. It varies across the nation from 18 in some states to 21 in others.

At the height of the Vietnam conflict the philosophy prevailed in some states that "if he's old enough to fight, he's old enough to drink" and the legal drinking age was lowered to 18.

In recent years, however, a review of the data has caused some state legislatures to reverse this trend.

Alcohol-related collisions are the leading cause of death for young Americans between 16 and 24 years of age. While they comprised only 22 percent of the licensed population, they are responsible for 44 percent of all nighttime fatal alcohol related crashes.

In 1978, Michigan raised the drinking age from 18 to 21 and experienced a drop of 31 percent in the number of accidents involving those in the 18 to 20 age group.

Public insistence on other legislative action is also paying dividends. In 1981, at least 31 states considered legislation related to drinking and driving; 47 states require blood alcohol content tests on drivers killed in crashes; and an increasing number of states impose more stringent penalties on those who choose to drive after drinking to excess.

The extent to which this has helped is reflected in figures that show arrest for drunk driving have increased from 561,000 in 1969 to 1.3 million in 1981. Hopefully, this will help to dispel the notion that "I won't get caught."

If all phases of the programs designed to get the drunk driver off the roads are implemented, our rewards will be great: many fewer serious injuries and lives lost, and a reduction in the annual $25 billion economic cost to the nation.

National drunk driving statistics

Total Fatalities/Fatality Rates

1. 250,000 people have died in alcohol related accidents in the last 10 years.
2. Presently, 25,000 people are killed each year in alcohol related accidents.
3. 500 people are killed each week in alcohol related accidents.
4. 71 people are killed each day in alcohol related accidents.
5. One American life is lost every 20 minutes in alcohol related auto crashes.
6. It is estimated that one out of every two Americans will be involved in an alcohol related accident in his or her lifetime.

Cause of Death

7. Alcohol related crashes are the leading cause of death for young Americans, between 16 and 24 years old.
8. For all Americans, between 5 and 35 years old, motor vehicle accidents are the number one cause of death. Over 50 percent of these accidents are caused by drunk drivers.

Recent Alcohol-Involvement

9. Over 50 percent of all fatal highway crashes involving two or more cars are alcohol related.
10. Over 65 percent of all fatal single car crashes are alcohol related.
11. Over 36 percent of all adult pedestrian accidents are alcohol related.
12. 80 percent of all fatal alcohol related auto crashes occur between 8 p.m. and 8 a.m.
13. 36 percent of all adult pedestrian accidents involve an intoxicated pedestrian.

Injury Crashes/Other Crashes

14. Every year, 708,000 persons are injured in alcohol related crashes; 74,000 of those people suffer serious injuries.
15. About 2,000 people are hurt each day in alcohol related accidents.
16. Two million drunk driving collisions occur each year.
17. Of every 200 to 2,000 drunken drivers on the road, only one is arrested. Therefore, the probability of a drunk driver getting caught is slim. Of those who are caught, very few receive a serious penalty.

18. Average drunk driver arrested on the highway has a .20 BAC level, double the level for presumed intoxication in most states; that's 15 drinks of 86 proof in 4 hours for a 180 lb man or 11 beers in 4 hours.

19. Between 7 p.m. and 3 a.m. on weekends, 10 percent of all drivers are legally impaired or drunk, in some parts of the country.

20. Most Americans drink. Over 80 percent admit to driving after drinking.

21. Relatively few problem drinkers, about seven percent of the driving population, account for over 65 percent of all alcohol related fatal crashes.

22. When drinkers are at the presumed level of intoxication, the risk of causing an accident is six times greater than for non-drinking drivers.

Youth

23. Although persons between 16 and 24 years old comprise only 20 percent of the total licensed population and 20 percent of the total vehicle miles travelled in this country by all-aged licensed drivers, they cause 42 percent of all fatal alcohol-related crashes.

Economic/Societal Cost

24. According to a recent Allstate Insurance Company study, drunk drivers are estimated to cost American taxpayers $21-24 billion dollars a year.

Miscellaneous

25. Admittedly, the United States has one of the safest highway systems in the world due, in part, to design characteristics, guard rails, highway markings and signs. We have relatively few fatalities per 100-million miles driven. But the portion of our accidents involving alcohol is among the highest in the world.

26. An accident by drunk driving is the most frequently committed violent crime in the U.S. today.

County Agent's Notes By Lee Taylor

HAY SUPPLIES

Hancock County livestock farmers may avoid hay shortages later in the season by feeding residues from row crops such as soybeans now.

Last summer's drought and the payment-in-kind program (PIK) have combined to shorten hay supplies and increase feeding costs for many livestock producers in the county.

Feeds normally used by cattle producers as supplements to feeding hay during winter months are at record prices because of short supplies.

Grain and oilseed production used as livestock feed was reduced sharply by the PIK program, resulting in higher feeding costs to cattle producers.

Proper management of available feed supplies this winter is critical because poor nutrition will reduce production and culling rates next year.

For more information about proper rations and ways to stretch your hay supply, this winter contact the County Extension Office.

WINTER PROTECTION
Winter weather can have disastrous effects on unprotected landscape shrubs. However, there are many ways to protect your lawn and garden shrubs.

Organic mulch, pine straw, pine bark or leaves are all excellent protection against freezing weather.

Use a four or six layer of mulch around the plant to act as a thermal blanket to prevent roots from freezing and conserve moisture.

However, plants should be watered during dry winter weather. Most damage on broadleaf evergreens is actually caused by drying from lack of water.

for medical emergencies since they are often further away from medical facilities.

Knowing the basics of first aid, such as mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and cardiopulmonary resuscitation are crucial aids when faced with an emergency.

Maintaining a well-equipped medicine cabinet with an ample inventory of first aid materials and medications is another step in preparation.

You should also keep a first aid kit on your tractor and in other work areas.

Post emergency numbers and addresses near the telephone. Teach youngsters how to call for help.

Carry emergency medical information at all times.

Telephone rate increase request explained by company official

South Central Bell filed tariffs with the Mississippi Public Service Commission that would reprice telephone service by decreasing long distance rates and restructuring other rates.

According to J. N. McGowen, vice president for South Central Bell's Mississippi operations, the proposed rate changes are the result of rapidly advancing technology, the introduction of competition into the industry and higher operating costs. The resulting inroads by competition and deregulation have forced a complete restructuring of the telephone industry.

The company is requesting the Mississippi Public Service Commission to approve rates to become effective January 1984.

If approved, rates for premium flat rate residence telephone service would be $27.97 a month, and one-line business service would be $66.65 a month. In exchanges where Measured Service is not yet available, the rate for premium residence flat rate service would be $25.17, and the rate for one-line business would be $59.99.

The company is also proposing a 15 percent overall reduction in its in-state long distance conversation revenues and a 5 percent reduction in outward WATS revenues.

Considering the proposed reductions in intrastate long distance, the average residential customer's total bill for telephone services will increase from about $44.53 to about $51.05 or about 14.6 percent. The average residential bill for local service only would increase from about $22.44 to about $31.12 or about 38.7 percent.

Other service options like Low-use Measured Service would provide access to the network for as little as $13.25 a month.

"This is not simply another rate request," said McGowen. "This is the final phase of the move toward deregulation that began 15 years ago."

McGowen said the driving forces behind a new communication industry pricing structure are technological change and competition. Because competition means lower long distance and telephone equipment prices, local service must increase to pay more of its own way.

The era of highly subsidized local telephone service is over, he said. "No longer can the public depend on fees paid by long distance users to cover a substantial part of the cost of providing local phone service," McGowen explained.

The major elements of Bell's proposal include restructured local rates and a 15 percent overall reduction in the company's Mississippi long distance conversation revenues.

The complete proposal would produce $131.4 million in additional annual revenues, with about $28 million of this amount for depreciation. The company is requesting this amount to bring its depreciation reserve more in line with the actual life of the equipment.

The company also proposes to charge $15.2 million to long distance companies—MCI, AT&T and others—to cover South Central's cost of handling the local portion of intrastate interLATA long distance calls.

Another $26.8 million would be obtained from non-basic services—such as 25-cent local coin calls, charges for using local directory assistance more than three times a month, installation charges based on the time and materials required to do the job, an optional maintenance plan for wiring inside a customer's home or office, and a number of other miscellaneous items.

This filing also includes in the monthly rates a request for the granting of emergency relief in the form of an interim exchange access charge. This charge would allow the company to recover lost revenue contribution from intrastate interLATA long distance (not offset by charges to long distance companies) and equipment lease fees.

To generate the additional revenues, Bell is proposing the following rate structure for local exchange service: premium flat rate service with unlimited local usage; Standard Measured Service with an increased usage allowance; Low-use Measured Service; and, for areas where Measured Service is not yet available, discounted one-party service.

"Deregulation has brought choice to the telephone customer," McGowen said. "You can choose a long distance company, you can choose a telephone equipment supplier, and now many can choose among local options, too."

These options are particularly important in the face of rising prices. "The fact is that many people and businesses just don't need unlimited, premium service," said McGowen. "Providing other service options gives customers the opportunity to decide which service best fits their needs and their budgets. Under the conditions in which we must operate today, these are the best solutions we have found to help customers hold down their telephone bills."

More than 57,000 of the company's Mississippi Customers now subscribe to one of the Measured Service options. The number will continue to grow, he predicted, as people who are willing to control their usage learn that Measured Service fits comfortably into both their calling habits and their budgets.

The Measured Service options will be available to about half of Bell's customers by year-end; two-thirds by the end of 1985.

Proposed local service rates would not vary among different sized telephone exchanges, as they do now. This pricing structure change reflects the higher costs of providing local service in rural areas and smaller communities, where facilities must be provided to serve relatively few customers over a large geographical area.

The proposed monthly rates are:

—for premium flat rate service, which includes unlimited local usage; $27.97, residence; $66.65, business;

—Standard Measured Service, which includes about 75 typical weekday local calls a month for home or business phones with discounts applying to other time periods; the rate for residence customers would be $16.50 with a monthly call allowance of $7.50, up from $6.50; the rate for businesses would be $36.65 per month, with a $7.50 allowance;

—Low-use Measured Service, which includes about 30 typical weekday calls a month to nearby locations, would be $13.25 a month for residence customers and includes a $3 calling allowance; and —where Measured Service options are not yet available, the rates for one-party flat rate service would be discounted; $25.17, one-party residence; and $59.99, one-party business.

McGowen said making sure Mississippi's telecommunications network is ready for the future is another important reason behind this request. Bell must continue expanding and improving the network in response to customer requirements, as well as ensuring Mississippians can participate in the changing nature of America's national economy.

"A telecommunications network that's ready to serve new industries—especially today's growing, service based economy that depends on moving information over communications networks—is critical to Mississippi's ability to attract jobs in the years ahead," McGowen said.

Among other changes included in today's proposal are:

—an increase to 30 cents for directory assistance calls beyond the proposed monthly three-call allowance;

—increases in long distance operator service charges; and —an increase in service connection charges.

Natchez to honor governor-elect

Governor-Elect Bill Allain will be honored by the citizens of Natchez, his hometown, at a public reception from 5 to 7 p.m. Friday at the Natchez City Auditorium.

Allain will become the first Mississippi Governor in more than a century from the Natchez area when he takes office on Jan. 10.

Allain's special guest at the Natchez reception will be Louisiana's Governor-Elect Edwin Edwards. Edwards was re-elected to a third term as governor of Louisiana in October; he will take office in March.

"I am looking forward to visiting with all our Natchez neighbors," Allain said. "but I also hope many of our supporters from across the state can join us and meet my family and friends in my hometown. Throughout this long campaign, the people of Natchez have been especially supportive of my effort to become governor and I want to publicly thank them for their help and encouragement."

The 55-year-old attorney general was born in Washington, in rural Adams County outside of Natchez and graduated from Natchez High School before attending the University of Notre Dame and the University of Mississippi School of Law.

Allain's two sisters and one brother still live in Natchez. A third sister lives in Scotland. The governor-elect began his career as a young attorney in Natchez prior to joining the staff of the attorney general, where he served for 17 years.

"I also want the people of Mississippi to help us welcome our neighbor, Governor Edwards, to Mississippi. I look forward to a close working relationship between our states during the next four years on many projects, including the 1984 World's Fair to be held in New Orleans. Governor Edwards has always been popular in Mississippi, and we want to show him how much we appreciate his friendship," Allain said.

Edwards was first elected governor of Louisiana in 1971, following a distinguished career in the U.S. Congress.

Keesler presentation of Messiah set today

The annual performance of G. F. Handel's Christmas oratorio, The Messiah, will be presented Sunday afternoon at Chapel One at Keesler.

This year's performance marks a tradition begun 30 years ago as an effort to bring together the military contingent and members of the Coast community. Many of the members of that first performance will appear in the chorus.

The performance will be directed by Dr. James Downey, Administrative Dean of William Carey College on the Coast, and a well-known musician and choral clinician. The chorus, numbering over 150 voices, will be joined by the Gulf Coast Symphony. Soloists have been selected from civilian and military personnel.

Sunday afternoon's soloists will be Don LaGrove and Lloyd Rollins, tenors; Ann Rollins and Jane Hardin, contraltos; Harry Evers, Frank Stachitus and Jeff Keeman, basses; and Linda Holt, Peggy Bishop and Dorothy Roberts, McEwen, sopranos.

Martha Francis Dugger, a member of the faculty at William Carey College, will be at the harpsichord. Rehearsal coaches have included Hilda Barnes, director of the Gulf Coast Community Chorus and Harvie McClure, choral director of Pascagoula High School.

The performance will be limited to the Christmas portion of the Messiah, a work that has remained a mainstay in the choral repertoire since its first performance in Dublin, Ireland in 1742.

"The work has a unique relevance to today's society," according to Chaplain (Col.) Frank Metcalf, head of the chaplain's center at Keesler. "It states in a joyous manner the unchanging truths of Christmas."

The chorus and orchestra are the largest ensemble to appear in the long history of successful performance. "This effort," said Dr. Downey, "brings together the finest musicians on the Gulf Coast in an event that unites civilian and military communities in an effort that is not only musical and cultural, but a deeply religious expression of faith."

The performance, which is open to the public without charge, is to be given in Chapel One, at the corner of "H" and Second Streets at Keesler.

The Sunday afternoon program begins at 2:30 p.m.

Christian Science lecturer to speak at Gulfport inn

Christian Science lecturer Andre' Plot, a native of Switzerland, now living in St. Louis, Mo., will speak in Gulfport Dec. 15 at 8 p.m. in the Holiday Inn on East Beach Boulevard, US-90.

The topic of his lecture is "Christian Science: Unlocking the Treasures of the Bible."

Plot, who speaks English, French, and German, had a varied career as a mechanical engineer before choosing to devote his full time to the public healing practice of Christian Science.

Recalling a company lay-off from his engineering days, Plot describes how the Bible promises became very real to him in his own experience, fully meeting his family's needs.

The lecturer asserts that many people are healed simply through inspired study of the Bible. Isn't this continual chain of healing. Plot asks, "the healing influence of the Christ, reappearing throughout all ages as promised by Jesus?"

First Church of Christ, Scientist, Gulfport is sponsoring this free public lecture. All are invited and child care is available.

Mrs. Adele McMahon of Pass Christian will introduce Plot at the lecture.

"I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."

— John 10:10

By SHAWN MURPHY

The Abundant Life

The story of Christmas is conspicuously simple. When Christ was born there were no trumpets blaring, no 21-gun salutes, no key to the city was given Him.

When God made His most loving gesture to man, the giving of His Son, He wanted it to be understood by all men. And so very subtly, almost unnoticed by the rest of the world, Christ entered the world in the usual manner, as a helpless child.

But why? Why should the Son of God not be heralded in with the mighty blast of angels trumpeting His arrival? And why not born into the greatest of cities rather than a relatively obscure village by the name of Bethlehem? And why shouldn't the King of Kings be born in a royal palace rather than a shed for animals?

Yes the story of our Lord's coming into this world is indeed conspicuously simple. Perhaps therein is a valuable lesson for us all.

Could it be that if He had come in grandeur with rockets glaring that He would have been for us an unapproachable Savior? And that had He come as a mighty conqueror that we would have feared Him rather than adored Him?

And yet in all of the vastness of God's grand creation is there a more believable evidence of God's creatorship than a newborn babe? I ask you is there anywhere in this world a more wonderful expression of divine love than in the first cry of a helpless baby?

Yes, Jesus Christ, the Son of God, the Messiah, the Holy One of God, the Savior of all who truly believe and entrust their lives to Him, came into this world as a baby!

He lived the truly 'abundant life' for some 33 years. He was sinlessly perfect. He was sacrificed on a cross as a sin offering for your sins and mine. And from that day to this, there has been no more wonderful expression of God's incredible love for you or me.

Yes, the story of Christmas is conspicuously simple, yet in its simplicity lies its profound inspiration, showing what abundant life may mean to each of us.

He reports success in shipping more than 14,000 cartons of individually wrapped fruit to Japan, Hong Kong, Singapore and Europe.

The air-freight cost to ship refrigerated fruit from Long Beach, Calif., to Tokyo is $4.82 per 40-pound carton. The non-refrigerated shipping cost is only $1.03 per carton.

Much of the cost difference is insurance added to the cost of refrigerated shipping to insure against refrigeration malfunction, Mrs. Rushing said. Wrapped fruit need not be insured.

Because part of the savings is offset by the cost of wrapping the fruit, Roddick estimates his shipping savings at $1 to $1.50 per carton.

The Japanese have shown tremendous interest in the process, and growers like Roddick believe it's one of the greatest tools available for export.

Roddick and three business associates have formed a company to wrap fruit. Other commercial efforts have begun in Florida and Texas.

Mrs. Rushing said officials are uncertain how the new process would affect the American consumer. Because is individually wrapped, the fruit would cost more even though shipping without refrigeration would cost less.

"Retailers who sold wrapped fruit would lose less fruit to decay and have fewer problems with spoiled fruit that contaminates other fruit," Mrs. Rushing said. "The process also could reduce fruit handling."

Also, wrapped fruit does not pick up odors of other products. When several products are shipped by truck, their odors tend to blend.

Despite higher costs, experts say it is undoubtedly a superior product to the conventionally waxed product.

Wrapped fruits would be ideal for small stores without a large turnover in produce, Mrs. Rushing said. Experiments have shown that wrapped grapefruit halves are ideal for airline breakfast meals.

Wrapping fruits like peaches would enable consumers to enjoy them for additional months beyond the regular season.

THE KIMBELL focuses on the accomplishments and achievements of the Kimbell Art Museum in Fort Worth, Tex. during its first decade. The half-hour documentary was produced in connection with the museum's 10th anniversary in October, 1982. Pictured is the Kimbell's south gallery. The show will be aired by METV ch. 19 at 9 p.m. Friday, Dec. 23.

Keesler slates Christmas concerts

Keesler's Air Force Band of the Gulf Coast, commanded by First Lt. Roy E. Brelling, will present an evening of Christmas music Tuesday at Crowell Theatre at the base, and Thursday at the Saenger Theatre of the Performing Arts in Biloxi.

The Tuesday evening concert will feature the "Blue Edition" jazz ensemble, under the direction of SMSgt. Robert Makymkow, and "Skypower" rock band, under the leadership of MSgt. Mark Tebor.

The Dec. 15 concert will feature the "Blue Edition" in solo performance. Both concerts begin at 7:30 p.m. Admission to each concert is free, and the public is invited.

An annual Christmas concert is only one of more than 400 performances each year by the Air Force Band of the Gulf Coast. The majority of these performances are in support of Air Force recruiting, the organization's main mission.

The three traveling components presently within the band perform an average of 30 to 40 concerts per month in high schools and colleges throughout Mississippi, Louisiana and Florida. Their support of local community events along the Gulf Coast has earned them a reputation as goodwill ambassadors within both the military and civilian communities.

Unlike several other volunteer musical groups on Keesler, the members of the Air Force band are full-time professional musicians, performing in a professional capacity, musically and militarily.

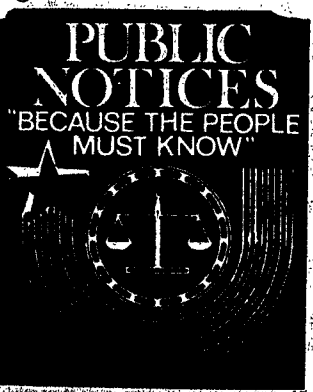

Whether performing in support of a military change of command, official dining-out, protocol reception, or performing in a community parade, civic festival or concert in the park, the 35 members of the Air Force Band of the Gulf Coast always perform as official representatives of the U.S. Air Force.

The Air Force Band of the Gulf Coast had its beginnings more than 40 years ago at Keesler. Originally a marching unit, the organization's music has evolved with time and has become as varied as the instrumentalists within its ranks.

From the big band sounds of "Blue Edition," to the light rock stylings of "Coastline," on to the Top-40's music of "Skypower," the Air Force Band of the Gulf Coast offers music for audiences of all ages.
